The second day of the 2011 FIABCI World Congress was filled with an abundance of networking, valuable information, education and innovative concepts. The Congress included plenty of interesting forums for members to participate in and provided the perfect opportunity to network, generate business and make contacts throughout the world. Following a day packed with many informative programs and marketing sessions, where FIABCI members had a great opportunity to present their properties to a global audience, the day ended on a high note with the famous Prix d'Excellence Award celebration, a prestigious black tie event sponsored by the Wall Street Journal.
